REVISION OF PETROLEUM PUMP PRICES FOR NOVEMBER 2026

The Energy Regulation Board (ERB) hereby announces to the General Public the revision of the domestic petroleum product prices for November 2026. During the period under review, international oil prices generally continued on an upward trajectory caused by the sustained geopolitical tensions in the Middle East. The average price of Petrol increased from US$121.58/bbl to US$125.84/bbl while Kerosene/Jet A-1 increased from US$144.00/bbl to US$153.22/bbl. Meanwhile, the average price of Diesel marginally reduced from US$160.88/bbl to US$154.71/bbl.

During the same period, the Zambian Kwacha weakened against the United States Dollar and depreciated by more than 3%. The combined changes in international oil prices and exchange rate were the main drivers considered when setting fuel pump prices for November 2026.

In view of the foregoing, the ERB has approved the revised national pump prices set out below.

NATIONAL UNIFORM PUMP PRICES K/LITRE
PRODUCT	CURRENT	NEW	ABSOLUTE VARIANCE
PETROL	31.46	33.06	1.60
DIESEL	33.27	34.45	1.18
KEROSENE	29.76	32.08	2.32
JET A-1	31.85	34.51	2.66

The revised prices will take effect at midnight on 31st October 2026 and will remain in force until the next price review.

The detailed wholesale and pump price build-ups for November 2026 are available on the ERB website: www.erb.org.zm.
